Code sharing and Development strategy

An initial app framework has been pushed to the main branch of the GitHub repo.

Members of the group will "checkout" a new branch from the GitHub repo, making any changes in their own branch before committing the changes to that branch.

Once changes to a branch have been pushed to that branch, Duy and/or Jacob will be responsible for reviewing the code before it is merged and integrated with the code residing in the main branch, which will be the code used for production and deployment.